

Editorial Internship (Website, Social Media, online)

n-ost is a network linking journalists, experts and media initiatives from around 40 European countries. At the same time, it is an agency producing journalistic content from and on Eastern Europe and a media policy NGO strengthening quality journalism and foreign reporting.

For our online presence and our social media channels, we're looking for an intern who is:

- passionate the internet and social media
- interested in the communication of web content and the architecture of homepages
- keen on working in a dedicated team of editors and project managers
- a registered student
- ... and has native-level English skills, but also a good or excellent command of German.

Your fields of activity

- help us with the conceptual design and migration of sub-areas of our webpage we are currently relaunching
- support our reorganisation into a more international network by writing or translating key texts into English
- restructure our social media communication (together with colleagues)
- take care of an English language online dossier and its publication via social media and international media partners

You'll work with us full time at our office in a loft in Berlin-Kreuzberg for three months starting 2 May. We offer a monthly allowance.

If interested, please send us your application to application@n-ost.org before Wednesday 13 April. For any questions please get in touch with Hanno Gundert: +49-(0)30-259 32 83-18.
