

Transitional funding for female doctoral and postdoctoral researchers

Call for proposals 2023

The University of Siegen has set aside funds of € 15,000 for the year 2023 to provide transitional funding for female doctoral and post-doctoral students. The funds are to be granted for the completion of a doctoral or habilitation project if it can be proven that all other financing options have been exhausted and the completion of the project within the given time is realistic. The funds can be made available to finance preliminary work (start-up financing), e.g. to obtain a doctoral or habilitation scholarship, or to cover the period in which other financing options are evidently not available.

The funding will be granted based on the guidelines for the award of funding within the framework of transitional funding for doctoral and post-doctoral students / transitional scholarship (Richtlinien zur Vergabe von Fördermitteln im Rahmen der Übergangsfinanzierung).

Funds for transitional financing are awarded once a year upon application. The Rectorate decides on the approval of applications on the proposal of the Equal Opportunities Commission.

I Who can submit applications?

Female doctoral and postdoctoral researchers of the University of Siegen are eligible to apply for funding.

II Which projects are considered eligible?

Candidates from all faculties can apply for transitional funding for their dissertation or habilitation project, regardless of the topic. In order to be granted transitional funding, proof must be provided of a completed university degree or a completed doctorate, which are the prerequisites for admission to a doctorate or habilitation. The prerequisite for funding is the content-related quality of the exposé. In the case of equal quality, criteria of a social nature are decisive.

The grant for transitional funding will usually be awarded for up to six months and up to € 1.250 per month.

III Which deadlines must be met?

Deadline for applications in 2023 is Friday, March 11th, 2023. The Equal Opportunities Commissioner will send the applicants the notification of approval by Friday, April 28, 2023 at the latest.

In the case of funding for doctoral projects, the supervisor must inform the Equal Opportunities Commissioner within three months of the expiry of the funding on a maximum of one page whether the doctoral project has been completed or how further qualification is ensured. In the case of funding for habilitation projects, the recipient must inform the Equal Opportunities Commissioner within three months of the end of the funding on a maximum of one page whether the habilitation project has been completed or how further qualification is ensured.

Deadline:
March 11th, 2023

IV What should the application contain?

The application is to be submitted digitally (e-mail) to the chairperson of the Equal Opportunities Commission and should contain the following components:

- An exposé of the work, approx. 5 - 8 pages (contents, goals, methods, envisioned progress).
- The candidate's CV.

- In the case of an application for start-up funding, a description of the preliminary work and a detailed list of the work steps planned for the funding period with a detailed timetable showing when the project will possibly be completed.
- In the case of an application for start-up funding and an application for interim funding, the applicant is asked to state which follow-up funding will be provided

Hence, transitional funding immediately following HYT funding is not possible.

- Doctoral researchers (Promovierende) applying must enclose a letter of recommendation / academic reference by one of the supervisors.
- Doctoral candidates must submit a written declaration by their supervisor, stating that they will write and submit a short report after the completion of the funding period.
